The ADI elections: moving towards the ADI Design Museum

The ADI elections in Milan on 30th June 2020 saw the principal roles filled with a change in the Governing Council and the re-election of Luciano Galimberti as President-

ADI members unanimously reconfirmed Luciano Galimberti as President, together with a Governing Council that includes Umberto Cabini (vice president and candidate for the presidency of the ADI Collection Compasso d'Oro Foundation), Antonella Andriani (vice president), Marco Predari (treasurer), Marika Aakesson, Vincenzo Castellana, Adriana Cruciatti, Perla Gianni Falvo and Carlo Malerba. Of the nine members, three hold the office of presidents of an ADI territorial delegation, confirming the significance of contributions from all over the country. The reconfirmation of the organisational roles within ADI, which valid for the next three years, falls at a delicate moment this year, due not only to the pandemic, but above all due to the complex gestation process that the association is involved with around the creation of the ADI Design Museum. The elections of the Governing Council were held during a regular elective assembly in the museum's headquarters, which is now ready to welcome the historical Compasso d'Oro collection.

The fact that there was only one list of candidates indicates not a lack of competition but rather proof of responsibility, comments Galimberti: "This is a positive sign of thriving vitality. All our members have been working hard, even during lockdown to establish this new venture that will open to the public by the end of this year. They have demonstrated their faith in the direction that has inspired ADI's actions so far. The aim is to complete this project, without further postponing a result that is dear to everyone, and which ADI is bound to respect in terms not only of the community but also the city and the entire country."

The programme for the next three years has been inspired by three basic principles: Development, Sustainability, Responsibility. This is the starting point of the association's initiatives related to the ADI Design Index and the Compasso d'Oro, created as always thanks to the partnership of ADI members from all over Italy through the 13 ADI territorial delegations, but also through relationships with schools, which the new Governing Council intends to expand internationally, as well as the partnership with Confindustria and Confcommercio Professioni.

Together with the in-depth development of a design certification procedure, preparations are also under way for a biennial conference designed to take stock of the state of design, together with a permanent Round Table. This will focus on Italian design and promote constructive debates with the participation of all those involved.

98 members were present with 228 proxies from other members, giving a total of 326 voters. The meeting, held in accordance with normal regulations, approved the 2019 final budget and the 2020 budget, and confirmed the Accounting Control Body for the three-year period 2020-2022 and the new association regulation. In addition to the Governing Council, the new coordination committees of the different Departments (Designers, Companies, General, Distribution and services) and the new Arbitrators were also elected.
